Celebrating 103 Years

February 2012

California Writers Club, Sacramento Branch

We welcome all writers, from aspiring to professional; to educate and encourage writing and marketing skills.

Cindy Sample Dying for a Dance

February's luncheon meeting speaker is Cindy Sample, author of Dying for a Dance and Dying for a Date. As her titles imply, her books are mysteries with a touch of romance and much humor.

In Dying for a Dance, lead-footed Laurel gets talked into learning a choreographed foxtrot routine for her best friend's wedding. After tripping her instructor and crashing into a pair of dance pros, Laurel discovers ballroom dancing can be dangerous. When she stumbles over the body of a dance instructor, she realizes it can also be deadly.

The title of Cindy's talk is "The pothole-filled path to publication and promotion."

"I'm a marketing nut, so I thought I'd discuss promotion and what it takes to sell books these days."

She will also address the difficulties of crossing genres; in her case, mixing mystery with romance and humor. She says publishers don't always know what to do with those books.

"I figure I've done almost everything you can on the way to getting published," she said. "People are always interested in other author's journeys, especially when they are with a traditional publisher, but I'm looking at other options going forward."

Cindy is a former columnist for the Gold River Community Newspaper, and past president of the Sacramento Chapter of Sisters in Crime. She is co-chair of the Left Coast Crime Convention, which will be held at the Sacramento Sheraton Grand Hotel March 29 to April 1, 2012; www.leftcoastcrime.org/2012.

Writers Network Meeting News

by Andrea Roth

President's Corner

by Marsha Robinson

Cheryl Stapp, local author and Sacramento resident, shared her California state tax knowledge with the attendees at the January 6 Writers Network meeting.

She related her knowledge of accounting, the tax forms required for organizational and personal use, the proper way to complete forms, and the ins and outs of filing state taxes. After all, it is getting to be that time of year once again!

As authors are their own bosses with their own business – a writing business – respectful payment to the government is garnished through taxes.

For example, did you know that the purchase of raffle tickets for any event is not an accepted write-off through the IRS? Did you know that the United States Congress members make all the rules and regulations for its continental citizens, having hired and incorporated the IRS (Internal Revenue Service) to fulfill it tax captures? Also, did you know that your writing business/ authorship must be listed as a hobby if it is not an employee position that requires a W-2 form?

Cheryl is in the process of self-publishing her first book, Disaster and Triumph: Sacramento Women, Gold Rush Through the Civil War. For more, visit her website: www.CherylAnnStapp.com.

The CWC Writers Network meets the first Friday of every month, 9 a.m., at International House of Pancakes (IHOP), 2216 Sunrise Blvd., Rancho Cordova (north of Highway 50).

Thanks to the hard work of Kim Edwards, Margie Yee Webb and Robert Cooper, the first of four CWC Sacramento Branch Writing Academy workshops is scheduled for March 10. “Get Polished to Get Published” with Melanie Bowden will offer tips, ideas and exercises for improving your stories and articles. Sign-up and join fellow writers for a Saturday well spent. Look for registration information in this newsletter and on the CWC Sacramento Website at CWCSacramentoWriters.org.

“The Plot Whisperer,” Martha Alderson, joins us in April for a workshop dedicated to helping writers find the deeper meaning of their stories and learn how to transform descriptive phrases in order to fully capture that essence.

On another note, I’d like to welcome Julie Bauer back as editor of the branch newsletter, replacing Shawn Hansen, editor since June 2011. I will miss Shawn's energy, enthusiasm, and helpfulness; qualities I value, especially in a volunteer position. I enjoyed working with Shawn and wish her the best. I will also miss Jamie Ervin (Laster) who is leaving the club. She was an active volunteer, chairing the Raffle and Contest Committees. I am seeking volunteers for these positions. If interested, please send me an email at marshar@quiknet.com.
